A Program for Your Professional Future

Winners of Jules L. Plangere, Jr., Summer Internships will work in the newspaper/digital newsrooms of designated New Jersey Press Association members. Some newspaper members are excluded such as The Star-Ledger and NJ.com. You will be notified if you have chosen a paper that does not participate in the internship program and given an alternate choice. This is an eight-week paid internship for the summer of 2022. Among the approximately 10 internships awarded annually, several are specially named:

Jules L Plangere, Jr. Internships, Mac Borg Internships,
John O'Brien Internship, and the Lloyd P. Burns Internship

Unique Opportunity

Students pursuing journalism careers already know that they will have to combine text with audio, video and images to best tell their stories. Along the way, they must help answer a perplexing question: What is the role of a journalist now, when anyone can report and publish?

The Jules L. Plangere, Jr., Summer Internship Program is designed to further the education of students interested in facing these challenges head-on.

Take advantage of this chance to supplement your traditional academic experience. These internships teach you about media fields that interest you and provide excellent hands-on experience. Plus they are great résumé-builders. Today's media job market is highly competitive; employers are seeking candidates who possess the most experience and relevant skills in their fields.

Quality Experience

NJPF believes that the quality of the internship depends on the company's commitment to help prepare students for careers in new media.

Every media company assigned one of our interns has set as a priority the importance of teaching students how to become outstanding members of the media community.

However, specific job responsibilities differ from one company to another. Here are some of the areas you may be involved with during your internship:

- Traditional reporting, including covering local news events
- Updating websites, blogs and publications
- Assisting with development of interactive multimedia projects
- Producing video to support editorial and advertising
- Searching the web for relevant, quality content
- Blogging or new media outreach
- Engaging audiences through social media
- Conducting topical research or analysis
- Gathering and maintaining contact lists
- Integrating new media technologies into your company's communications strategy
- Supporting staff as needed

What You Need to Know Before You Apply

Assignment

Your paid internship will last eight weeks and must be served at a media outlet that is a member of the New Jersey Press Association and that participates in the summer internship program.

On the application form (Pages 6 & 7 of this flier) you are asked to list three NJPA media companies at which you would prefer to serve your internship (a list of New Jersey news organizations is posted on the NJPA website, www.njpa.org). Please choose 1 daily newspaper and 2 weekly newspaper choices. Please note: While NJPF cannot guarantee you will work at a media location of your choice, every effort will be made to respect your preferences and locate an internship near your home or other preferred location in New Jersey. The selection committee will make the final decision on where your internship will be located.

All internships are subject to approval by the media company's publisher, general manager and/or editor. Assignments will be made in April.

Salary

The internship salary you will receive through this program is a minimum of $4,000 — a weekly salary of $500 (before taxes) for eight weeks.

Eligibility

To receive an internship, you must be:

- A U.S. citizen or permanent resident (green card).
- A resident of New Jersey attending college inside or outside the state or a resident of another state attending college in New Jersey.
- Enrolled as a full-time college freshman, sophomore or junior and planning to return to undergraduate school in the coming fall of 2022.
- Must have a valid driver's license and your own vehicle to get to and from your assignments.

In 1996, Monmouth awarded Mr. Plangere an Honorary Doctor of Laws degree. In 2002, the Jules L. Plangere, Jr., Center for Communications and Instructional Technology was named and dedicated in honor of Mr. Plangere for his philanthropic generosity. Also in 2002, Mr. Plangere received the University's highest award, the President's Vision Award. ## Mac Borg

Malcolm A. Borg is chairman of North Jersey Media Group (NJMG), which has been owned and operated by his family for four generations.

The company publishes two daily newspapers — The Record (Bergen County) and Herald News (Passaic County) — and more than 40 community papers.

NJMG also publishes NorthJersey.com and (201) Magazine, plus other websites and magazines. The company's commercial printing division prints many newspapers, including USA Today.

Mr. Borg served on the New Jersey Press Foundation board of trustees from 1984 to 2005. He served as president of New Jersey Press Association in 1989-90 and is a former member of its board of directors.

Lloyd P. Burns

For more than a quarter century, from 1950 to 1976, Lloyd P. Burns served as general manager of New Jersey Press Association, the organization founded in 1857 to represent the state's daily and weekly newspapers.

He began his newspaper career in 1937 on the advertising staff of the Daily Home News, New Brunswick. Thirteen years later, he joined NJPA and successfully led the organization's growth and development for almost 26 years before passing away suddenly in 1976 at the age of 60.

An energetic professional mentor and a spirited champion of open government, his stewardship of NJPA was described in testimonials as being "intelligent, sensitive and progressive" and "inspiring for the newspapers of this state." Mr. Burns also was instrumental in creating New Jersey Press Foundation, the charitable arm of NJPA, which is dedicated to assisting the state's student journalists through internships and scholarships.

John J. O'Brien

John J. O'Brien dedicated all of his illustrious 51-year career to New Jersey newspapers. For most of the first 25 years, he served New Jersey Press Association in multiple ways as a dedicated volunteer committee member, chair, and board member for NJPA while working at various member newspapers.

In 1991 he was named NJPA's executive director and for the next 20 years successfully led the organization and its professional staff while serving as chief lobbyist advocating for the free press and the public's right to know.

As executive director he was also instrumental inaugurating the NJ Newspaper Network, which has become a vital statewide advertising sales and placement service.

He also transformed the scope and operations of the NJ Press Foundation, expanding its staff and leading one of the top state press foundations in the country.

After stepping down from NJPA in 2010, he continued serving as the press foundation's director until 2016.
